

A portrait of Victoria Carr, a young woman with long dark hair, smiling. She is wearing a red top. The background is a blurred classroom setting with colorful posters on the wall.

CHARTERED COLLEGE OF TEACHING

Victoria Carr
MCCT
Science Teacher

Join free of charge as a student teacher

“ I joined to be part of a network of teachers across the country
sharing practice and research. ”

Join us at chartered.college

The Chartered College of Teaching is the professional body for teachers across all phases and settings. We provide access to the latest research and evidence, professional development pathways, networks of expertise, examples of practice and a voice which champions excellence in teaching.

Join today to be a part of your Chartered College – and to move your profession forward.

Termly, peer reviewed journal

Impact, the journal of the Chartered College, links research and practice. It covers everything from original research to practical perspectives and reflections from teachers and researchers working in a range of settings.

Teacher networks across the country

Our teacher-led networks across the country offer the chance to share expertise, knowledge and practice with colleagues. Regular local, regional and national events are supported through online activities and discussion.

Access to member-only website

An education research database including over 2,000 journals, and a member site with research summaries, videos, case studies and articles providing 'a window into the classroom' of schools around the country. Why not share your own practice, too?

chartered.college

@charteredcollegeofteaching

@charteredcoll

/chartered-college-of-teaching

Annual membership up to £45

Be connected.
Be informed.
Be inspired.